

Wolf Mountain to Supply Professional Grow Mixes to Greenhouse and Nursery Growers

Professional Grow Mix products to provide highest grade grow media to professional horticultural customers.

March 20, 2009 – Lindon, Utah – Wolf Mountain Products, a premiere provider of bark and aged wood based soil enhancements and specialized mulch products, now to offer soil-less, professional grow mix products to horticultural professional growers.

“We believe that the uniqueness of our composted bark products combined with the firTurf® fertilizers that we now offer made way for a natural extension to professional grow mixes. The other components required for this effort, including Canadian sphagnum peat, vermiculite, perlite, among things, we have channels to act as a basis for this effort,” said Brad Sparks, VP Business Development. “We know that professional growers demand the highest quality products, consistently supplied with exacting nutrition requirements for their grow needs. We are committed to meeting these demands,” he said.
